Stain Treatments and Acid Wash Available

Unsightly stains appear in pools without regards to changing seasons and often without explanation of their origins. Regular chlorine treatment will not prevent stains from occurring. The good news is that most stains can be chemically treated to minimize, if not eradicate, their presence. Stain treatment produces superior performance when applied in cooler weather. This in part happens because some algae protection is at a temporarily loss due to lowering the presence of chlorine during the stain removal period. Cooler weather minimizes the effect of this decreased protection.

For pools that have quite a bit of discoloration, staining and scaling, an acid wash will produce better results. Please call our office at 636-0903 to schedule your stain treatment or discuss if an acid wash is a better option for you.
